Program for Leading Graduate Schools
Fostering Global Leaders in Veterinary Science for contributing to One Health

Environmental Pollution and Food Safety in Africa

Date: 5th, March
Venue: 3rd Lecture room, Graduate School of Veterinary Medicine, Hokkaido University

14:00~14:05 Opening remarks by Prof. Masahiro Okumura
(Professor of Surgery, Head of International Committee, Graduate School of Veterinary Medicine, Hokkaido University)

14:05~14:30 Prof. Mahdy AbdEl-Gawad AbdEl-Kader (Zagazig University)
Perspectives on mycotoxin contamination of food

14:30~14:55 Prof. Alaa Eldin Mohamed Ali Morshdy (Zagazig University)
Current Situation of pesticides residues in Arab countries

14:55~15:20 Prof. Nabli H.H. Bashir (Gezira University)
Environmental pollution in Africa

15:20~15:45 Prof. Elsaid Abozeid Eldaly (Zagazig University)
Organochlorine pesticide residues in local and imported fish at Sharkia province markets, Egypt

16:00~16:25 Prof. Ahmed Elsadek Hegazy (Zagazig University)
Studies on fungal infection in chickens with relation to environmental pollution

16:25~16:40 Dr. Wageh Sobhy Darwish (Hokkaido University, Zagazig University)
Cross-talks between heavy metals and xenobiotics metabolizing enzymes

16:40~16:55 Dr. Nowaki Hijikata (Faculty of Engineering, Hokkaido University)
Concept of resources recycling sanitation system for rural area in Burkina Faso - Linkage of sanitation and agriculture -

16:55~17:05 Dr. John Yabe (Hokkaido University, University of Zambia)
Lead and cadmium contamination in offal of cattle
from a Pb-Zn mining town of Zambia

17:05~17:15  Dr. Yoshinori Ikenaka (Hokkaido University)
Field toxicological research activity in African countries

17:15~17:30  Closing remarks by Prof. Shigeo Ito
(Dean, Professor of Pharmacology, Graduate School of Veterinary Medicine, Hokkaido University)